LITTLE BIT

on most anything

Last September, Seaside city officials and Rep. Burt Talcott, our 12th district Congressman, held a sign-tacking ceremony to make Seaside officially the largest city on the Monterey Peninsula.

It was the denouement to the annexation of Fort Ord, for which Mayor Lou Haddad was in great part responsible (and which this newspaper has been accused of never praising editorially --we did and do, for the record).

At the time we chided Talcott for being a party to a lie, because the population patch tacked onto the city limits sign read 39,616. Talcott chided us right back, pointing out that he didn't have anything to do with the numbers on the sign; he was just doing his job to help in the annexation (which he does and did, for the record.)

The total on the sign was arrived at by adding Seaside's estimated population of circa 1965, which was 22,616, to the estimated total in the annexed portion of the post, 17,000. The trouble was that Seaside had lost population since 1965, and state statisticians were even estimating a rough figure of 37,000.

Now comes the federal census. The district office in Salinas sent out a press release (one that tends to infuriate us weekly newspapers anyway because it's the 10th carbon and you can hardly read it -- the daily newspapers and the TV stations come first, you know, and the bureau just has to save the taxpayers' money). It said preliminary 1970 counts showed Seaside with 35,659.

Now that's not only a blow to Seaside's ego -- not a fatal one, however, because we're still No. 1 on the Monterey Peninsula--but also makes a little dent in our pocketbook.

City Manager Milt Farrell has estimated that the 3,957 reduction in population will cost the city $48,220 in the coming fiscal year. And that figure is for only seven months, since he says the city should get rebates on the old 39,616 figure until December.

If that were extended for a full 12 months the loss at nearly $21 a head would be $82,600, but Farrell is confident it won't go that far.

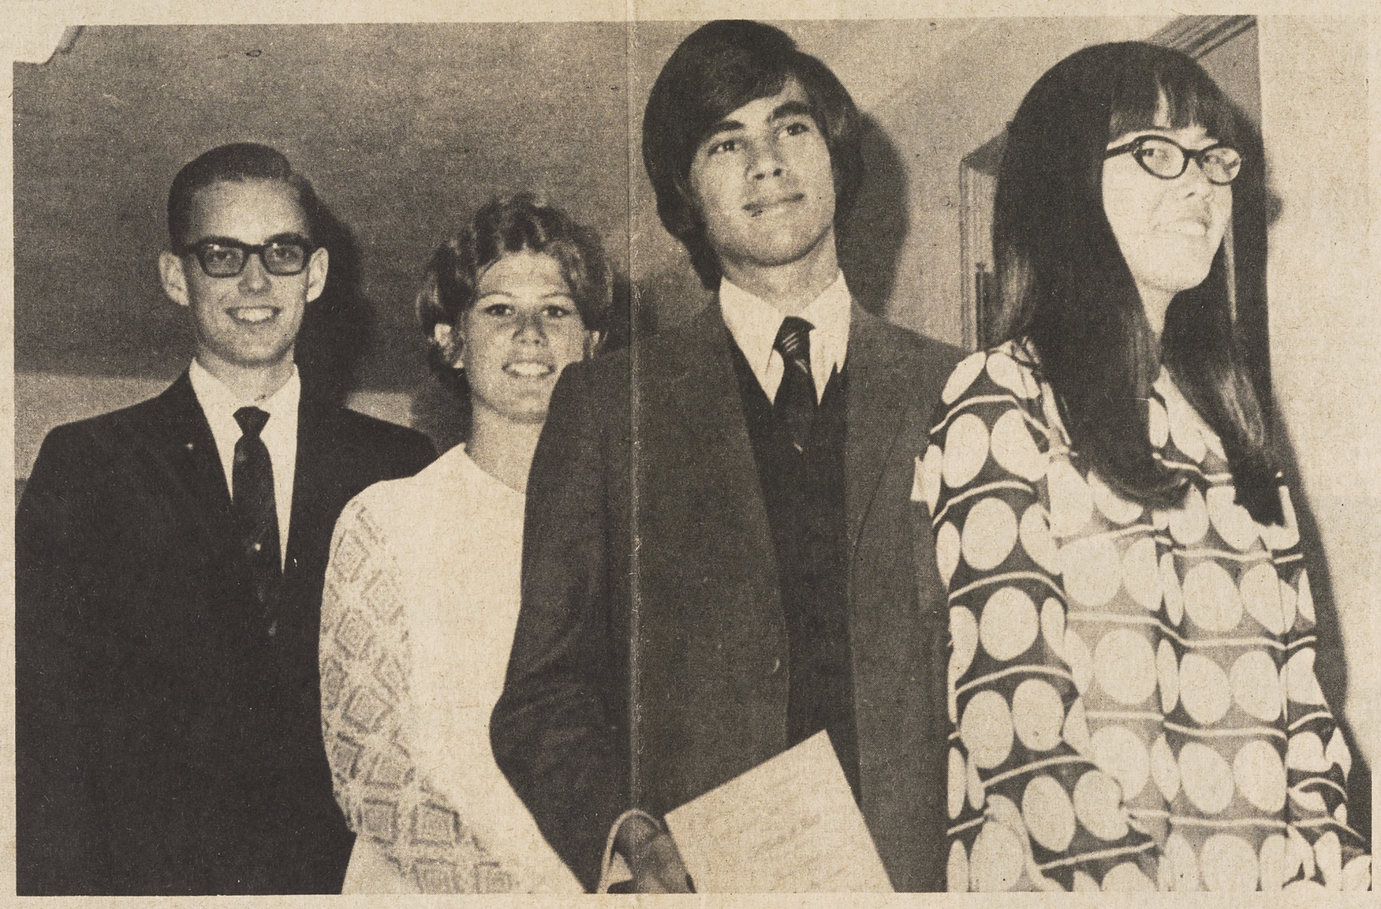

He plans to ask the state statisticians for an estimate come January 1, and he's convinced it will bring the city's figure back up to the old 39,616 mark. He maintains that the completion of barrcks and the hospital at Fort Ord, plus the addition of some apartment and single-family construction and Del Monte Villa, the seniors' complex, will cancel out the loss.

For the City's sake, we hope so.

But the most aggravating thing about the whole population controversy is that is now appears that the census bureau has already flown the coop and we apparently won't be able to bet a breakdown or a more accurate figure than 35,659 before the end of the year.

It seems that after releasing the preliminary figures from its Salinas office late last week, the bureau closed up shop as of May 31, and disconnected its phone, with no forwarding number.

10-acre park approved

Seaside Planning Commissioners and City Councilmen gave the go-ahead last week to a recreation element to the city's general plan that will place a 10-acre park at the corner of LaSalle and Noche Buena in the Hannon Redevelopment Project.

The controversial plan drew a unanimous approval from the planners but a 3-2 vote from councilmen.

Mayor Lou Haddad and Councilmen Oliver Murray and Mrs. Pearl Carey favored the plan while Steve Ross and Jerry McGrath opposed it.

Leading the opposition was Ross, who objected to increasing the population density in the Hannon Project by creating the open space park with no residents in the northwest corner while building some 80 cluster-complex units on 10 sites elsewhere in the project. The units will be built by Charles Davidson o f San Jose, who had been given the nod to build more than 100 units on the park site before the recreation element was proposed.

Ross likened the plan to moving all persons in the council chambers to one side of the room while leaving the remainder of the chambers vacant.

Ross admitted he favored the park, but said he objected to the elminiating of several tot lots and small parks to make room for the Davidson condominiums.

Davidson argued that each site would have its own open space and play area. He also said the previous plan would have added 168 housing units to the project instead of the current 133.

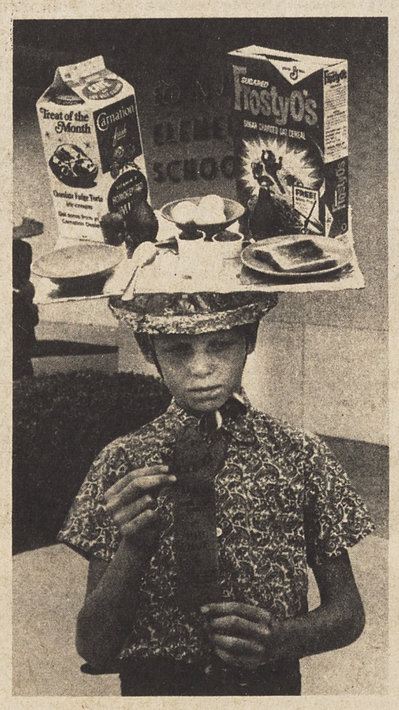

McGrath said he was not opposed to the plan, but objected to the rush to get it passed. The back - to - back hearings had been held on the same day to allow the Redevelopment Agency to adjust its budgeting to meet a June 30 deadline.

In other business, McGrath recommended, and councilmen agreed, that the council ask the state assembly to revise the state election code to shut off affected councilmen's pay during the time of a recount.

The council accepted the resignation of the Rev. William Licht from the board of architectural review and issued him a certificate of appreciation. Fr. Licht, vicar of St. Mattias" Episcopal Church, left last week to direct a parish in Port Arthur, Tex.

Councilman Jerry McGrath objected to consideration of ratifying councilmen's committee assignments and commission appointments submitted by the mayor. The matter presumably will be taken up in executive session by councilmen this Thursday.

Council to revise fireworks

The Seaside City Council will return to its regular first - and - third - Thursday meeting schedule this week. The council met out-of-cycle last Thursday after deferring its May 21 meeting for a training institute.

A major item on this week's agenda is a carryover from last week.

Councilmen will consider amending their May 7 revision of the fireworks ordinance to once again allow their sale by established businesses in Seaside. They had voted to prevent such selling to all bus nonprofit concerns, but MBS Department Store objected and councilmen last week indicated they wanted local concerns put back into the fireworks business. They did retain a portion of the ordinance that projibits the sale of the fireworks inside a building; the must be sold in outside stands.

Councilmen will also act on amending the sign ordinance to allow certain types of political signs and certain "For Sale" signs in private vehicles.

Councilman Jerry McGrath had objected to the political sign provisions of the sign ordinance and letters opposing the vehicle-sale signs had been received several months ago.

Honored

LEE TOLER, founder of Young Adtuls For Action five years ago, was honored at a testimonial dinner last week. Toler, who left his job with the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District to start helping youths in trouble, has won statewide recognition and a special governor's award for his work in counseling, rehabilitating and finding jobs for ex-convicts. Numerous organizations presented certificates of appreciation to him at the dinner.

LAW IN ACTION

GROUP INSURANCE

Group insurance for employees is quite common today. For instance, Herman worked for a meat market which belonged to a merchants' association offering group life and health insurance. He signed up for insurance and the market deducted the premiums, which depended on the worker's age. In his application Herman made a statement about his health, but no one gave him a medical exam.

Herman said he was in good health and had seen no doctor in the last two years except for checkups. He died eight months later.

The insurance company refused to pay his widow, saying that Herman had made false statements about his health. His widow sued and finally won in the California Supreme Court.

Since the company did not require the medical examination, it had not issued individual policies which would have informed members of the policy limitations. Herman could not have reviewed or corrected his application while he lived.

Under the Insurance Code a policy must contain the entire contract. The company's failure to incorporate a statement of the policy limits by referring to attaching it, had barred the company from claiming the application had been fraudlent.

Further under the law, no insurance company can contest insurability after two years unless premiums are not paid. It is too late if a company has not checked on an application within two years.

Most insurance policies have such an "incontestability clause" in which, after one or two years, the company agrees not to contest the policy. The law does not condone fraud, but both parties may agree on a time when a policy may not be contested.

This month she has a one-man show in the Beardsley Room at the Carmel Art Association's gallery in Carmel. Friday evening she will use a Spanish theme when demonstrating the open color technique.

Beach-Bound? Take Along A Terry

It's that time of year when sandy white beaches and the soothing sound of the surf are no longer idle winter dreams but delightful summer realities.

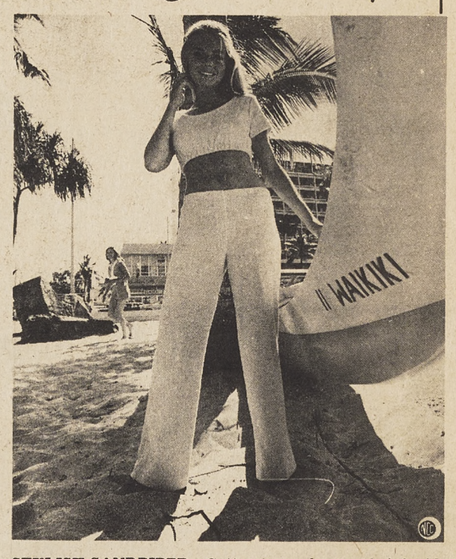

If you plan to be a summer '70 siren, rest assured. While you were dreaming of a whole summer of sun days, sportswear designers were working to make those dreams come true in style. What they've come up with is enough to make any career girl leave her typewriter and head for the beach.

This year you can leave your beach towel at home, unless you want to sit on it. Summer's most smashing sportswear looks are decked out in carefree cotton terry—a fabric known for its ability to soak up moisture as well as fashion.

The newest terries shape up in bold stripes and luscious solids for pull-on flare-leg pants, scooter skirts, short shorts, breezy midriffs, and classic tank tops. In lighter weights and soft, fine textures, they have a new-found style and zip that make getting dry after a swim a luxurious experience.

Designers see the new cotton terry fashions as part of the whole new approach to soft casual clothes for every hour of the day. Some predict they'll be worn away from the beach for twilight and evening hours as well as day.

So be advised: if you want to vacation in style, take along a terry.

STYLISH SANDPIPER—Cotton terry shapes a brief midriff top and long flare-leg pants for the fashionable beachcomber. Ideal for luxurious lounging on the sand after a swim, the outfit comes in white, navy, yellow, blue, red, or driftwood.

THE NEWEST—Pairing up with a scooped midriff top are "girl shorts"—versatile pull-ons that are shorts in front and a skirt in back.

SEASIDE STRIPES—Bright multi-color stripes give added zing to the classic tank top and short shorts in carefree cotton terry.

Margaret Mead at MPC June 8

Dr. Margaret Mead, whose fame as an anthropoligist has earned her the position, in the past two years, of a sought-after commentator on almost any current subject of vital interest, will lecture in the National Guard Armory at Monterey Peninsula College Monday, June 8, at 8 p.m.

The MPC-sponsored "Evening with Margaret Mead" was originally scheduled for March 20 but postponed. Free tickets obtained for the earlier date will be honored Monday night. Current tickets - also free - are available afternoons in the community services office in the college's administration building.

Primarily known for her studies of the people on Manus, one of the Admiralty Islands in the Australian Trust Territory of New Guinea, Dr. Mead is a prolific writer. Among her numerous books are "Coming of Age in Samoa," "Growing Up in New Guinea," "Male and Female," "People and Places," "New Lives for Old: A Cultural Transformaton," "Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies," "Soviet Attitudes Toward Authority," and "Keep Your Powder Dry" and "Changing Culture."

When she revisited Manus in 1967, a 90-minute NET film, "Margaret Mead's New Guinea Journal," was made. This film, widely televised, was shown at MPC last March.

One-man show

A one man showing of the most recent acrylic paintings by Lillian Churchill will open at the Seaside City Hall on Monday. The show may be seen Monday through Friday from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

Some of these paintings reflect her interest in the theme of Time and Space expressed through symbols as early as the Sumerian and as recent as the computer. Very architectural in design, they show a considerable sense of humor - as in one of the ancient scribe reading a long scroll. The scroll is the Dow Jones Averages.

Mrs. Chruchill feels that she was perhaps most of all influenced by Ralph Du Casse and Fritz Faiss from whom whe learned the fascinating and ancient technique of encaustic, the medium used in the murals of Pompeii.

Best poster

Gale Foss, Seaside High School senior, was a first place winner in the Old Monterey Bicentennial and the Del Monte Shopping Center Merchants Association school poster contest.

There were 342 poster entries in the five categories.

First prise in each catecory is a $50 Large Silver Monterey Bicentennial Medal.

Summer reading club opens

The Emerson Branch Library's summer reading club, "Caligornia Stepping Stones," begins this week. To sign up, a child must have read one book at his grade level since the close of school.

Club members may read at their own speed as there is no competition involved, but books read for credit must be at the reader's grade level, and the child will be asked a few questions about what he has read.

There is no age limit for club members.

When a child joins the reading club, he is given a bllolet in which to srite the authors and titles of the books he reads during the summer. For each two books read, he will receive a picture of some California historical event to paste in his booklet.

A party will be held for club members after the end of the program on August 14.

The Emerson Branch library is at 1500 Imperial Street on the lower floor of the Monterey Bay Grange Building. It is open from 12 to 5 and 6 to 9 on Mondays and Wednesdays, and from 8:30 to 11 and 12 to 5 on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

There are now available for borrowing at the Emerson Branch Library 8mm and Super 8 movie films and art prints for hanging in the home. The films may be borrowed for a period of three days and a projector may be borrowed to show them, but the projector may need to be arranged for ahead of time as it is used by other branch libraries. The art prints may be kept for a month and may be borrowed for additional time if not on request for another borrower.

BOB WOOD REPORTS

A Weekly Column By The 34th District Assemblyman

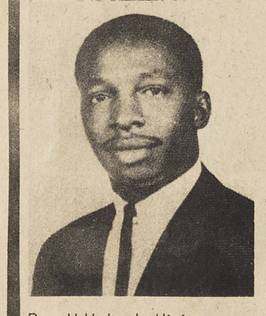

Many of you may have read in your local paper or heard on the radio, where Patrick McGee (R), 52 years of age, an Assemblyman from Los Angeles county, passed away (cancer) in the UC hospital in San Francisco. If you will recall it is just a little over a year ago that Assemblyman Pattee (R), Monterey, was killed in an automobile accident. Dame Fortune has played a peculiar role in California politics since that time. I understand the Republican Party only had something like 18 members of the 80 man Assembly in the year 1960 or there about. Through the following ten year period they built that figure up to where starting the year 1969 they actually had a majority of 41 members.

When the Legislature begins in January, the first two months are usually used in introducing bills and the voting does not really become serious until March or April. Assemblyman Pattee was killed about this time and the Republicans lost their majority. Although I happened to be the one to replace Assemblyman Pattee those last few weeks of the '69 session, another sequence of events found Assemblyman Mulford (R) of Alameda, absent from the legislative battles due to a cateract eye operation, and thus again the Republican Party did not really have the 41 votes necessary for passage of a bi-partisan bill. There were a few instances during the remainder of the '69 session when this was brought about however, one of these being the passage of the budget in which Assemblyman Mulford was brought up from an Oakland hospital just to cast a vote, but then had to return to the hospital. Everyone thought the 1970 session would surely show the Republican majority of 41 votes and during the first few months 41 Republican members were present. However, Assemblyman McGee was taken to the hospital in late March just about the time the voting began and at that time we thought he might be able to return, but soon he found the days extending inot weeks and the weeks into months, and Friday, we learned that Patrick McGee would never again take his seat in the California Legislature. Fortune had again dealt the Republican Party a hard blow, for again they do not have the 41 votes necessary in a bi-partisan bill and it is doubtful, although it is possible, a special election could bring about the election of another candidate before the close of the present session. The present count of 40 Republicans and 39 Democrats simply means that neither party actually has enough votes to put over a bi-partisan bill. Any man that introduces a bill must make sure that it has the support of at least some members of the opposing party. Between now and 1971 there will be a whole complete general election and no one knows what the new line ups will bring one way or the other. But past events have shown how death and injury and disease have played a big part in the role of California politics. History has shown us that these same factors have also played a large role in national politics and the destiny of our country.

Enuf for now...

Jerry Blanchard, the metal and craft teacher at Fitch Junior High, is a master craftsman judging from the items he has on display. More Helpful Tips from PG&E:

"Clip and Save"

Every girl should know how to re-fuse.

If you should find yourself power-less, and your neighbors are too, it's probably a local power equipment failure. Call us and we'll restore service. If the power is off in your house only, it's probably a blown fuse or an open circuit breaker. You may have too many appliances on one circuit or outlet. Unplug a few.

Or it could be a short-circuit, so check for damaged cords and loose plugs.

If your lights are still off, check your main switch. If it is the fuse type, the switch should be turned "off" before you replace a fuse. Replace any fuse that has a smoked-up window or melted metal strip. (Make sure new fuse is the same amperage as the old one—no more, no less.) If you have circuit breakers, follow the instructions on the panel. Many homes have both fuses and circuit breakers.

If your electricity is off for any period, don't open your refrigerator or freezer, so frozen foods will stay frozen longer. If the food starts to thaw, add dry ice. Still in the dark? Call us.

P.S. The average daily cost of gas and electricity to run a typical household year 'round is less than a couple of packs of cigarettes.
